It's competition change over day and so this email brings you the launch of the Den Engineer Challenge!

This competition is all about engineering, and building your own den. Whether you do it inside or outside, whether you use old sheets, garden sticks, plastic bags or recycling you'll need to use your creativity to build your own personal den.

For all the details and judging criteria, please click here.

It would be great if you were able to share this email with other parents and teachers you know. We would love for as many children and young people as possible to have the opportunity to get involved!

Deadline for entries is Thursday 25th June!

Good luck and best wishes,
Off School

explain what materials your boat is made from and why?

This is a video of someone making a paper boat. If you are stuck for ideas, try to make this one and see what happens? Did it float? Is paper a good material to make the boat from?

Pillars - Set yourself 5 goals for you to aim to achieve for the rest of June. That is another 12 days including today! Think about how you can achieve each of them.

They can be small or big targets, but make sure that they are manageable. When you achieve one of your targets, tick it off.

If you can get evidence for each of them in the last column (Mum can write this in), there will be a special treat for you.
